PACKING TIPS

Non-cotton clothing is essential to your safety when you encounter adverse weather conditions in the field. Beyond safety, proper clothing will keep you comfortable and allow you to function optimally in the field, even during adverse weather conditions, increasing your odds of success on your hunt and enhancing the enjoyment of your wilderness experience.

Do not overload your hunting pack with unnecessary gear. You need to be able to move quickly in the field. Do not burden yourself with gear you don't absolutely need. You need to be focused on hunting, not carrying a heavy pack. Your guide will be carrying an extensive load of gear in their pack including first aid, game bags, field dressing tools, emergency supplies, and water purification.

All personal gear, excluding hunting pack and weapon, should be packed in two medium duffel bags (25 lb maximum each).

We use, love, and highly recommend the following clothing brands:

TRY THIS AT HOME

Pack clothing that can be layered, and that is not extremely heavy or bulky. We will often have very hot conditions to below freezing in the same day. For example you may start off in the morning wearing your short sleeve top, long underwear top and bottom, hunting pants, midweight sweater, insulated jacket, rain gear, gloves, and stocking cap. Everything except your pants and shortsleeve shirt may end up in your pack by noon. Be sure you can:

- fit your extra clothing in your pack. This is where you will find the benefits of high quality clothing that offer warmth without weight or bulk;
- comfortably carry your pack fully loaded with gear, water, lunch, and clothing. Pack should weigh no more than 15 lbs fully loaded.
